CUT OPPONENTS GAIN SUPPORT

Six Organizations, in Meeting Here, Have Protested in Reduction in School Funds

K. E. A. SPONSORING FIGHT

An extended fight upon the proposed 15 per cent cut in the state budget as it affects the educational system of Kentucky was launched during the past week by the publicity committee of the Kentucky Education Association.

The fight is being carried on by the committee with the co-operation of the various luncheon clubs, women's organizations and civic bodies of the state, many of which have sent resolutions to members of the general assembly asking their support in curbing the proposed cut.

Among those organizations in Lexington which have voiced protest to the cut are the Rotary Club, Lions Club, Optimist Club, Kiwanis Club, the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs through its president, Mrs. Fannibelle Sutherland, of Paris, and the the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers.

A meeting of the state board members of the later organization was conducted yesterday at the Lafayette hotel, with Mrs. James G. Sheehan in charge, at which a resolution was passed concerning the proposed cut.

It is pointed out by the publicity committee that approximately $1,400,000 will be cut from the public school fund of the state and another $100,000 will be taken from the fund for the equalization of educational opportunities in the smaller, poorer counties of the state, and the state supported higher institutions of learning will face disaster if the proposal to make the flat 15 per cent cut in the legislative budget is enacted into law.

It will take years for the institutions of higher education to recover their losses if the cut be declared valid, members of the committee claim.

Other possible ills that would be brought about by the proposed cut include the reduction of salaries for approximately 15,000 public school teachers, and the closing of schools in the state for at least one more month in the year.

As a remedy for the situation the publicity committee of the K. E. A. has suggested an additional levy on gasoline to be diverted to the general fund, or paring of the road fund to make up the deficiency.

Charles Cox Reviews Life Of Captain Throckmorton

The following article relative to the retirement of Capt. J. W. Throckmorton, veteran L. & N. employe, was written by Charles M. Cox, city freight agent for the L. & N. in Lexington, for the L. & N. Employes Magazine of February:

Aerial transportation is generally looked upon as something new and modern but it is really as old as man himself. History does not record just when this form of transportation really began but it is recorded that on February 4, 1848, a courier of the air, that large but very graceful bird, the stork, made a delivery to a farm house in Nicholas county, Ky.; for on that date there was born unto George W. and Mary Dever Throckmorton a bouncing baby boy.

Like all babies, this one was the greatest ever and after much pondering the name of John William was bestowed upon the latest arrival in the Throckmorton household. However, fate decreed that this blissful life should be short-lived and little John became an orphan at a very early stage in life. But blessed grandparents were there to take him under their fold. At such a tender age one soon forgets the tragedies of life and John William Throckmorton grew to young manhood unde the guiding hands of his grandparents.

In the year 1866 John Throckmorton entered railroad service with the Kentucky Central Railroad at Boyd, Ky., as a junior clerk, advancing two years later to baggage master. This was just a stepping stone to the realization of an ambition so in 1869 he embarked upon a long career as a railroad conductor, running between Falmouth and Covington.

It was not the custom in those days to confine the operations of a trainman to a single division, consequently Mr. Throckmorton saw service on other parts of the road (the L. & N. having acquired the K. C.) and he was sent to the Memphis line during the yellow fever epidemic in 1878, on a run between Memphis and Bowling Green. In 1879 we find him on the main stem between Louisville and Nashville. But not for long, as his remarkable memory for dates reveals to us that in 1890 he went to the L. C. & L. division. Then from 1893 to 1906 we find him on the Kentucky division. Sometime during these earlier dates mentioned he put in a stretch of five years between Covington and Huntington, W. Va., while the C. & O. Railway was taking a fling at operating the Kentucky Central Railroad.

It is not within our memory just how conductors fell heir to the title of "Captain" or "Cap" but as long as we can remember they have been addressed as such so henceforth and hereafter we will refer to him only as "Cap." On August 1, 1907, a most beautiful passenger station was opened at Lexington, Ky., and "Cap" was placed there as its custodian and station master. Through all these 25 years "Cap" has been a familiar figure in and about the Lexington Union station.

Eighty-four years, with 66 of them in active service, is a lot of years. That is the very enviable record of Capt. J. W. Throckmorton which came to a close with his retirement on December 10, 1931. While not as hale and hearty as he once was, "Cap" is still very active and comes to the station each day. He was made a Mason in 1891 at Henry Clay (now Lexington) Lodge No. 1, is a deacon in Central Christian church and has lived for the past 39 years at his present home on Woodland avenue in Lexington.

"The enviable record established by Mr. O'Brien during his long service as commissioner of public finance and afterwards as mayor and chief executive of the city of Lexington, in which capacities he administered with marked success the financial affairs of the city and personally supervised the investment of its large sinking fund and various pension funds without a single loss to the taxpayers is a testimonial of his superior ability as a business man and of his sound judgment in all matters requiring the exercise of intelligence, prudence and discretion."

SEASON'S LEAF AVERAGE $10.57

Sales on Local Market Continue Heavy as Volume for Year Reaches 90,551,000 Pounds

TWO NEW RECORDS ARE SET

BURLEY SALES IN BRIEF

Week's pounds	6,631,745
Week's money	$439,392.92
Week's average	$ 6.62
Week's high crop	$34.91
Week's high basket	$55.00
Season's pounds	90,551,075
Season's money	$9,579,180.80
Season's average	$10.57
Season's high crop	$34.91
Season's high basket	$35.00

Sales start Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the Anglin Avenue, New Independent No. 2, New Burley and Tattersall's houses.

Sales on the Lexington looseleaf tobacco market continued heavy during the past week as the season's total was pushed over the 90 million pound mark, 90,551,075 pounds of leaf having been sold this year for $9,579,180.80, an average of $10.57.

Last weeks sales totaled 6,631,745 pounds, which went over the breaks of the various warehouses for $439,392.92. Average for the week was $6.62 per hundred pounds.

Despite the fact that the average is somewhat lower than the preceding week, little change could be seen in the price trend on the market. Every warehouse floor on the market was flooded with poor grade leaf, which sold as well as at any time during the season.

Two new season records were established during the week, one for high crop and another for high basket. The crop of Baker and Cassidy, of Jessamine county, set both records, averaging $34.91. One basket in the lot brought 55 cents per pound.

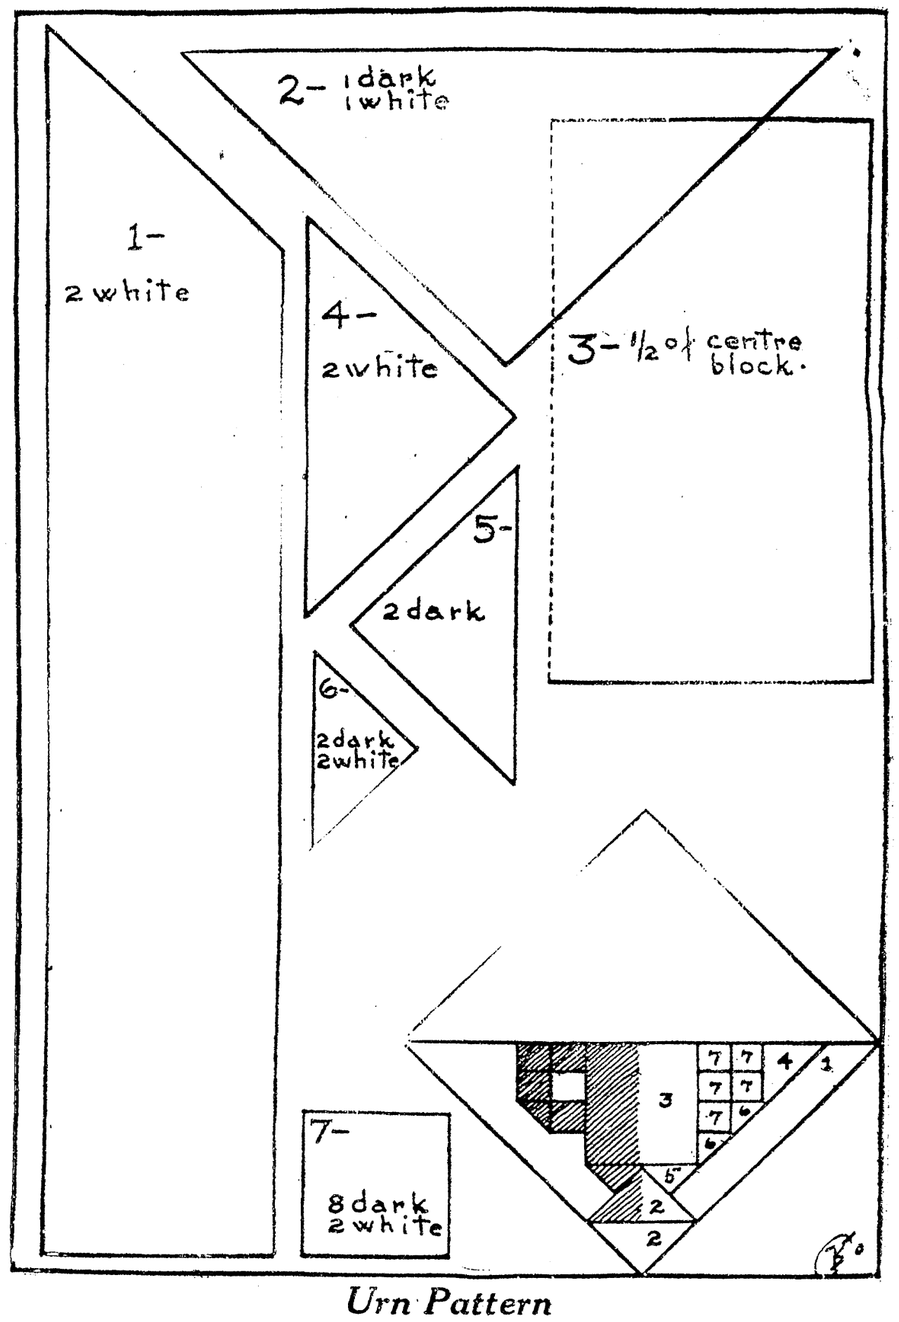

Cuba expects its present sugar crop will be over 3,000,000 tons.

Nancy Page Quilt Club

By Florence La Ganke

Urn Pattern

A DIRECTION LEAFLET
that will aid in making the Garden Bouquet Quilt will be sent free to any reader sending a stamped addressed envelope to Nancy Page in care of this paper.

The second meeting of the Nancy Page Quilt Club was devoted to arithmetic and a study of the direction leaflet. By sending for this leaflet, you too will get a diagram of the finished quilt and will understand just how to put the blocks together.

There are border strips, small and large triangles that are a fourth and a half the size of large diamond blocks. These diamond blocks are cut or torn 12½ inches by 12½ inches. For them use soft white gingham. There are 12 of them. But club members prepared 18 more which were later cut into halves diagonally. These gave 36 large triangles. For them were cut into halves again diagonally, making four small triangles. These were corner pieces. The remaining large triangles were the pieces next to the border strips and the pieces on to which the birds and flowers were appliqued.

The finished quilt has 32 large diamond-shaped blocks. In 20 of these the lower half is made up of the pieced urn, as shown in today's paper. The upper half is the white triangle which is seamed to the pieced block. The combination of the two makes a diamond block which is the same size as the diamond block of solid white, of which there are 12. The border strips can wait a later description.

Now for the urn. Keep this pattern for you will need to use it 20 times. Nancy suggests pasting it into your Nancy Page Quilt Scrap Book after you have made a tracing of it on light-weight cardboard. This tracing is cut into pieces and these are used for patterns.

In using them, allow one-quarter inch on all sides for seaming. Note that the pieces are numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7. These numbers correspond to placement of blocks in urn as shown in small drawing.

Note that only one-half of urn is shaded in that small drawing. This has been done to show how pieces are put together. The whole urn, is of course, of one color with background of white.

Note that on each piece there is further printing telling how many pieces of each size to cut. Just because it says "dark" it is not necessary, nor wise, to choose dark color for urn. Pale yellow, ecru, tan or soft green are suggested. Choose color-fast, soft material like gingham.

Note that piece numbered 5 shows a dotted line. Lay this piece with the dotted line on a fold of the material, for only half of it is shown. This is because of lack of space in the drawing.

Use fine stritches and put the pieces together as indicated in small drawing. Then seam the large white triangle along upper edge. Now you are ready for first applique which appears next week and is a tulip.

BACK BLOCKS SUPPLIED
In the event you have missed any of the Garden Bouquet Quilt blocks previously published in this paper please send ten cents for each block missing. Also enclose stamped, addressed envelope. Address Nancy Page, care of this paper.
